

Targeted Feedback Institute

Are you interested in providing the kind of feedback to your teachers that they can implement immediately and independently? Wondering how to effectively give this kind of feedback? The two-day Targeted Feedback Institute will guide you in how to do so.

Giving targeted feedback is a powerful skill and an important support for helping teachers grow their practice throughout a school year. This kind of professional support serves to give immediate feedback to teachers in relation to a specific learning goal or area of focus they choose. Participants will work on developing three specific skills that will support them in giving effective feedback to their teachers.

After attending this institute, participants have an optional opportunity to certify their proficiency in these skills via a micro-credential.

Questions? Contact edlead@uw.edu

To learn more about CEL's
Targeted Feedback Institute, go to:
www.k-12leadership.org/feedback