

Summer Leadership Institute

Leading for Effective Teacher Learning

July 10-11, 2018 // Seattle

This summer, join experts from the Center for Educational Leadership for two days that will forever improve your approach to teacher professional learning.

How do great school leaders improve teaching and student learning? They create powerful professional learning cultures and implement effective learning plans with their teachers.

CEL's Summer Leadership Institute 2018: Leading for Effective Teacher Learning is the perfect kickoff to your school or district's professional learning planning for the 2018-2019 school year and beyond.

Join us this summer in Seattle!

Addressing the problem of traditional teacher professional learning
CEL faculty will engage district leaders, principals and teacher leaders around the problem of traditional teacher professional learning, how the field of education may address it, and leaders' roles in solving the problem.

Providing new strategies and tools for teacher professional learning
Participants will leave the institute with CEL's best strategies and tools for designing, supporting and implementing effective teacher professional learning — all in the service of helping teachers solve issues of student learning together.
